[Numb. 1166.]

THE South-Carolina GAZETTE.

From Thursday October 14th, to Thursday October 21ſt, 1756.

LONDON, July 17.

IT is reported, that the ſea has broke in and ruined the new baſon at Dunkirk, which has employed ſome thouſands of workmen for ſome years paſt. This baſon was intended to receive ſhips of war when purſued by an enemy, and to be the grand ſally-port, as it were, in their wars with England.

It is ſaid, ſome of the tranſports lately employed in bringing over the foreign troops, will be converted into ſhips of war carrying 16 to 20 guns, 40 ſeamen and 20 ſoldiers, to guard the coaſt, while the men of war are diſtreſſing the enemy in different parts of the world.

The Dutch ſhips, chiefly laden with ſalt, bound to Havre de Grace, and brought to Portſmouth, were releaſed laſt tueſday, to proceed on their voyages.

The ſame day the Happy ſloop, capt. Burnet, brought in a large Dutch ſhip, laden with maſts and yards, bound to Breſt.

They write from the Hague, that their high mightineſſes the States General are reſolved not to give the leaſt encouragement to any of their ſhips carrying naval ſtores to any of the ports of France.

Advices from Vienna mention, that the court of Pruſſia judges it to be an infringement of the treaty made at Aix la-Chapelle, for the queen of Hungary to conclude a treaty with the court of France prejudicial to any of the parties concerned therein.

London, July 20 This day ſeveral warlike ſtores were ſhipped for Gibraltar and America, on account of the government.

An expreſs is diſpatched to Sir Hanbury Williams, the Britiſh miniſter at the court of Ruſſia, with proper inſtructions to explain the reaſons for taking the Ruſſian ſhip, having contraband goods on board, ſo that this affair is like to be ſoon accommodated.

Private accounts by the Flanders mail ſay, that when the gariſon of St. Philip's fort were marching out, a brave honeſt ſubaltern officer cry'd out, in the anguiſh of his ſoul,

Oh Portius! is there not ſome choſen curſe,
Some hidden thunder in the ſtores of Heaven,
Red with uncommon wrath, to blaſt the man,
Who owes his greatneſs to his country's ruin.

Addiſon's Cato

Being then aſked by a ſuperior officer, who was the man? He anſwered that he did not know, but God knew, and would not fail to reward him, according to his works, in this life or in the next.

Extract of a Letter from on board the Yarmouth, off Belle Iſle, dated July 10th.

"On thurſday morning laſt we fell in with a French fleet off Cape St. Martin's, conſiſting of 30 merchant ſhips under convoy of 3 men of war. Upon ſight of the convoy, the admiral made a ſignal to chace, which was immediately complied with We made ſail directly, and every ſhip that came athwart us we brought too, and leaving her to be taken up by our fleet a ſtern, continued our chace of the frigates, one of which run on ſhore to eſcape us; the other 2, (tho' we fired upwards of 170 ſhot at them) being ſo near the land, got into Bourdeaux. We have taken 14 ſail of the convoy, which are all laden with wines, flour, and other proviſions for the uſe of the fleet at Breſt All this we did in ſight of a very large village, which ſtood upon the iſland, we not being above 5 miles from the ſhore. The following account I had from the captain of a ſnow named the Free Maſon, burthen 100 tons, which we have taken: He ſays that he came from Rochefort; that his owner was Mr. Steval, the Engliſh conſul at Dunkirk; that he left the iſle of Dieu the 5th inſtant, under convoy of the Fidele, Pomone and Thetis (the above 3 frigates); that they left the Aquillon of 64 guns, and 2 frigates, in the iſle of Dieu; that the Hardie of 74 guns and the duc de Bourgogne of 90, were fitting out at Rochefort, the latter never at ſea; and that admiral McNamara is to hoiſt his flag on board her — The captain ſays, he left Rochefort the 1ſt of May, [illegible] 'til the 5th inſtant at the iſle of Dieu for convoy; and that ſeveral Dutch veſſels were taking proviſions &c. for the uſe of the fleet at Breſt."

Hague, July 17. By ſome particular advices from [illegible], the French loſt in the laſt attack of fort St. Philip 25 officers and 450 men, by the vigorous [illegible] [illegible].

[illegible] July 27 It is ſaid, his royal highneſs the [illegible] will ſpeedily be appointed lord high admiral, [illegible] in conjunction with his preſent high office [illegible] generaliſſimo; by which the army and navy will [illegible] more happily united, and under the beſt abilities [illegible] the three kingdoms.

[illegible] from Pruſſia ſay, that as his majeſty was [illegible] a body of ſoldiers, he being in the front, a [illegible] went thro' his waiſtcoat, and grazed his ſide; [illegible] no notice of it, but diſmiſſed them, with orders to be there the next day; when he gave private directions to his officers to ſearch the guns after they were charged, which they did, and found 3 balls in the gun of one who had inliſted as a common ſoldier, and pretended to be a Swiſs, but has (ſince this affair) been diſcovered to be an officer in the French ſervice.

Portſmouth, July 26 Several letters from admiral Boſcawen, within theſe 4 days, mention their having taken 7 Martinico men ſince thoſe burnt.

Admiralty Office, July 27 His majeſty's ſhip the Antelope, which ſailed from London the 16th of July laſt, with ſir Edward Hawke, Lord Tyrawley, and rear-admiral Saunders, arrived at Gibraltar on the 3d of this month. Sir Edward Hawke took upon him the command of his majeſty's ſquadron there, and on the 9th the Antelope ſailed for England, having admiral Byng, Lieutenant general Fowke, and other officers on board, and arrived yeſterday at Spithead, where admiral Byng was put under arreſt. Sir Edward intended to ſail with the ſquadron from Gibraltar, the day after the Antelope left that place.

WILLIAMSBURG, September 17.

MOnday night came to town capt. Overton, from the Cherokees, and acquaints us, that 400 warriors of that nation are marched with major Lewis into Virginia, to our aſſiſtance.

Antigua, Auguſt 31. Yeſterday arrived here the ſnow Sally, Capt. Barton, in 27 days from Gibraltar, from whom we received the following articles of intelligence:

The day after the engagement between the two fleets, the French fleet appeared off Minorca, when a report prevailed that they had ſunk and deſtroyed the Engliſh fleet, and a flag of truce was ſent into the garriſon, deſiring they would ſurrender, for, if not, the enemy did not doubt having it in a few days, and then no quarter wou'd be granted: The gallant general Blakeney diſmiſſed the flag of truce, and gave them an anſwer by cannon balls and bomb ſhells; the execution that day was upwards of 1000 men killed, when a parley was beat for leave to bury their dead; ſoon after the French, on making a breach, put in execution a bold attempt, when a mine was ſprung by our general, which blew up a battalion, and occaſioned their beating a ſecond parley to bury their dead: This mine being a principal one in the defence of the garriſon, general Blakeney now took that opportunity to ſend a flag of truce with a propoſal of a capitulation; Every thing was granted, and the French marched in next day, being the 29th of June: During our forces ſtay they did duty as the French, a ſtrong Friendſhip ſubſiſted, the Engliſh marched out with all the honours of war, and were ſent to Gibraltar at the French king's expence.

The duke de Richelieu told general Blakeney if B—g had landed his forces as he might have done, he had orders from his maſter to nail up the cannon and embark immediately for France. We loſt about 170 officers and men, the French between 4 and 5000.

Admirals Hawke and Saunders being ſent to take the command, Byng and Weſt are ordered home, as are the generals Fowke and Stuart. Hawke ſailed from Gibraltar the 9th of July, with 19 ſail of men of war and troops on board to reinforce the garriſon of St. Philip's, not knowing that it was ſurrendered.

Our forces from Minorca arrived at Gibraltar 5 days before Capt. Barton ſailed, which makes the garriſon 10,000 ſtrong.

St. Chriſtopher, Sept. 22. On monday laſt paſſed by here in her way to Antigua, the ſhip Maſſachuſets Frigate. She is ſaid to have been freighted with military ſtores and proviſions for the uſe of the French at Cape-François, by a very eminent perſon in St. Euſtatia; but the crew being all Engliſhmen, they on the paſſage confined the captain, and thought it more proper to carry ſuch a cargo into an Engliſh than a French port.

Extract of a Letter from Antigua, Sept. 10.

"Yeſterday was ſent into Engliſh harbour, by his majeſty's ſnow [illegible], a ſmall French privateer ſloop mounting 4 carriage and 6 ſwivel guns: Two of our men of war, the Anſon and Auguſta, are likewiſe gone in there, having ſprung their fore top maſts in the late bad weather. — At a court of admiralty held here the day before yeſterday, the 3 following veſſels were condemned, viz. A Bermuda built ſloop belonging to Mr. Allair of St. Euſtatia; Mr. Allair proved himſelf a * burgher of that place, and that no part of the cargo was contraband; but the capt. having concealed ſome papers, the judge of the admiralty looked upon the concealment as a fraud, and condemned her and her cargo. The next was a ſchooner belonging to Malaga B—bs which, altho' he proved himſelf a burgher, and ſubject to the ſtates, was condemned, as belonging to an Engliſh born ſubject, who had no right to ſupply our enemies: This trial took up from 2 o'clock in the afternoon 'till 8 at night, and very great arguments and reaſons were made uſe of by the council on both ſides. The other condemned, was a ſloop belonging to Mr. D—s of St. Martin's. We have 4 more Dutch prizes, to be tried next monday, all of which, I believe, will be condemned, being the property of Engliſh born ſubjects. Mr. Allair intends to appeal, but as to the others, I don't know whether any of them will. Poor F. P. has got one or two ſent in here."

* [We have been told, that it has been for ſome Years paſt a conſtant Practice (but more eſpecially while theſe Colonies prohibited the Exportation of Proviſions to the French, before the War), for ſuch as were fond of an illicit Trade with the French (which too many Engliſhmen are) to go over to St Euſtatia, and other Dutch Ports, and there carry on their pernicious Trade with Impunity, by covering their Veſſels with Briefs [illegible] and occaſionally producing Proofs of the [illegible] being Burghers of thoſe Places, and ſubject to the States [illegible]*. NEWBERN, in North-Carolina, Oct. 1.

Yeſterday the General Aſſembly met here, according to Prorogation, when His Excellency the Governor was pleaſed to open the Seſſion with the following Speech, viz.

Gentlemen of his majeſty's council,
Mr. Speaker, and gentlemen of the aſſembly,

SINCE your laſt meeting the face of affairs is much changed, and become very critical; at that time the wiſe and reſolute meaſures his majeſty had taken to preſerve the rights and poſſeſſions of his colonies, and to oblige the French to give up and reſtore the countries they had taken or with-held from Britain, contrary to the faith of the moſt ſolemn treaties, by making repriſals and repelling them from their unjuſt encroachments in Nova-Scotia and on the Ohio, gave us hopes, that the French king would have liſtened to reaſon, and would have done juſtice to his majeſty, and to his Britiſh ſubjects, without engaging in a war.

But inſtead of doing juſtice, and relinquiſhing his ambitious views, of hemming in theſe colonies, ſecuring all the Indian trade, and making all the Indian nations our enemies, and by their aſſiſtance, to expel all the Britiſh colonies from their poſſeſſions on this continent, he perſiſts in his ambitious ſcheme; and has invaded, without a declaration of war, the Britiſh poſſeſſions in Europe, and has threatened an invaſion, and the total deſtruction of the Britiſh empire. The whole Britiſh empire in Europe and America is at ſtake; our holy religion, liberties and poſſeſſions are in the utmoſt danger, unleſs we exert our whole united force to repel theſe faithleſs neighbours in time of peace, and mercileſs enemies in time of war, from this continent, or at leaſt confine them to their primitive colony of Canada.

The great weight of a war againſt the exorbitant power of France, without the aſſiſtance of any ally, under the great debt which affects Britain, undertaken to ſecure the ſafety, liberty, liberty, and poſſeſſions of theſe colonies, requires, that the colonies ſhould exert their utmoſt united force, and depend and call upon God our ſaviour, to defend his proteſtant church and the cauſe of liberty; I am therefore fully aſſured, that you will continue to exert the ſame zeal and ſpirit you have hitherto done, in granting ſupplies to ſupport theſe colonies in defence of our religion, liberties and poſſeſſions.

Mr. Speaker, and gentlemen of the aſſembly.

It is your immediate concern, to ſee that the taxes you laid on have been effectually raiſed, and to view and examine the accompts, and ſee that they are regularly kept, in order to grant a ſufficient ſupply, when the colonies are in ſuch imminent danger, to prevent the ſeat of war being brought into this province, which we muſt ſoon expect if the French are not ſoon repelled out of the neighbouring provinces: At this time a leſs ſum will do more ſervice, than a very large ſum hereafter, which, if delayed, muſt neceſſarily be given to procure your future peace and ſafety.

Gentlemen of his majeſty's council,
Mr. Speaker, and gentlemen of the aſſembly,

I have received his majeſty's inſtructions, to recommend to you to prepare a bill for preventing deſertion, and harbouring or concealing of deſerters, and to encourage the raiſing of recruits for the public ſervice of the colonies, and to repay maſters for the remaining time of indented ſervants who inliſt in his majeſty's ſervice; and alſo to recommend, that ſuch ſums as you ſhall raiſe for the public ſervice of the colonies, may be put under the direction of the commander in chief over all the Northern colonies.

His majeſty has been pleaſed, in compliance with the addreſs of this aſſembly, to give me inſtructions to re-enact the twelve laws which had been repealed by his majeſty in council in 1754, for erecting counties and towns, reſerving his majeſty's right to erect members to ſerve in the aſſembly, and alſo an inſtruction to agree to the refuſal of ſuch ſubſequent laws as had paſſed in April 1754; and alſo an inſtruction to re-enact them, with the ſame reſervation.

There are ſeveral other laws which I muſt recommend to your conſideration: An effectual law to amend and make effectual the law for fixing and maintaining a learned clergy, and for building churches and glebe houſes, and purchaſing glebes; a law to favour our Indian allies, and to prevent maiming and killing negro ſlaves; as alſo, to make more effectual the inſpecting laws; and to appoint a committee to reviſe the laws.

I have faithfully repreſented to his majeſty your zeal and ſpirit, in ſupporting his undoubted right in America, and his majeſty has g ly approved of your zeal and chearfulne granting the neceſſary ſupplies, and is convinced, that you will exert the ſame and ſpirit in defence of your religion, lib and poſſeſſions; and you may be aſſured always faithfully repreſent your loyalty majeſty, and zeal for his illuſtrious houſe the public ſafety of Great-Britain and its nies: And I ſhall heartily and ſincerel operate with you, in every thing, tha promote true religion and virtue, and wealth, peace, trade and happineſs of province.

Mr. Timothy,

THERE has been lately much ſaid of an A ry Company; and I find many, beſides m diſpoſed to enter into it: But we are all at a where or to whom we may give in our Names o ply for Information. It would therefore be ki the public-ſpirited Gentlemen, who, you have firſt thought of it, to give us their Scheme or as freely as I am going to communicate to you ſhould be mine, to wit, To form one compleat Co pany of 60 Men, to be ready upon all Calls and Duty chearfully and Free; all Voluntaries, an cloath themſelves in a proper Uniform; to be pub ly exerciſed at the ſame Times as the Charles-T Regiment; and to have an experienced Comman who underſtands Gunnery well, and ſhould inſt all his Company equally and fully, according to Abilities: And that ſuch Commander might do Duty with Alacrity, where would be Harm, i ſhould be inveſted with the Care and Charge o the Artillery and Stores in Charles Town, and the laries of the ſeveral Gunners united?

I could mention a fit Gentleman to command inſtruct ſuch a Company, who gain'd his Knowle from o[illegible] M. Petit Bois, under whoſe Direction Town [illegible] if I am truly informed, once well fortifi But I don't [illegible] who are to canvaſs my Letter I'll juſt beg you to give this a Place in your Pa And am

Yours,

PALISADE.

CHARLES-TOWN, October 21.

The Number of Cherokee's that came to Town on the 8th Inſtant, was 188: They were received in Broad-ſtreet, by one of His Majeſty's Independe Companies, the Charles-Town Regiment of Foot, and Troop of Horſe, thro' whom they paſſed, and had immediately an Audience of His Excellency the Governor in Council. They afterwards had two Conferences with His Excellency, in which they gave Aſſurances of inviolable Fidelity to their Brothers the Engliſh, and that they would take up the Hatchet againſt the French and all other His Majeſty's E mies: And, having received their Preſents laſt Saturday, on Sunday they ſet out to return to their Country, very well ſatisfied.

Our laſt Accounts from Georgia, and our Agent gone to the Creek's, are, "That all remains quiet there," and therefore favourable.

Letters from St Kitts ſay, that before the Mid of laſt Month, 54 Privateers had been fitted out from the Leeward Iſlands and Barbadoes, who were eve Day bringing in Prizes, and many of them of conſiderable Value: That the French, for want of Seamen, have fitted out but few, and thoſe had but li tle Succeſs; And that, in ſome late bad Weather ſeveral Veſſels were loſt there, at Montſerrat, and o ther Places; but no conſiderable Damage ſuſtained on the Iſlands.

The GENERAL ASSEMBLY of this Province is to meet on the Firſt Tueſday in November next being the 2d Day of the Month: — When, 'tis ſaid, that among other wholeſome Bills, will be brought in, one for the better Security and Defence of the Harbour and Inhabitants of Beaufort and its Environs; one for reviving the Look Outs; one for appointing, and aſcertaining the Duty of, a Harbour Maſter for Charles Town; one for reſtraining Slaves from fiſhing without the Bar; one directing Boats and Canoes to be advertiſed (as near as the Caſe will admit) in the ſame Manner as ſtray'd Cattle are, and under like Penalties; and one for enlarging the Fines for Non-appearance at Muſters.

Letters from North Carolina by the Poſt (which came in Yeſterday), adviſe, that the Aſſembly of th Province are bringing in another Aid-Bill, to ke up their Forces the enſuing Year (which their Governor has very much at Heart), by laying a Tax on the Proceedings of the Law, on Deeds, Conveyances, &c. That ſeveral Families were lately deſtroyed on the Head of Roanoak by French [illegible] that the Chaplain and ſome Officers of the Royal American Regiment, were arrived there to raiſe Recruits, in which the Chaplain particularly met with great Succeſs: With them ſet out upwards of 30 other Officers, but Lord Loudoun ſent an Expreſs after them ordering all to return that were [illegible].

We hear, that there are at this Time upwards of 30 Criminals in our Gaol, moſt of which will have their Trials at the Court of General Seſſions now ſitting: This extraordinary Number, is at once a Proof of the Degeneracy of the Age, and the Vigilance of our Magiſtrates, by whoſe Means, 'tis [illegible] doubt [illegible]bted, all the Nurſeries of Vice will ſoon be to-[illegible] and effectually ſuppreſſed.

VESSELS entered inwards ſince our laſt.
